ORDINARILY, DESPITE its impact on all of us, a school election doesn't "draw" people to the polls.

People are inclined to say "what the heck" and forget about it.

Yet what happens in any given school district affects every citizen in that district.

Whether or not the people have kids in school is beside the point, for one's ballot or tax bill does not differentiate between those with children in school and those without.

And that's the way it should be.

So, you see what we mean, issues affecting our schools are not the sole province of any one group.

We all should be concerned—teachers, parents and the rest of us.

WHAT WE ARE LEADING up to, of course, is the recent combined school election in which voters of the Campbell Union High School District approved a tax hike of 35 cents and the electorate in the Campbell Union (elementary) School District named a new trustee.

While the election drew only about 25% of the registered voters, it probably set a record for any special school election that has been ever held in these two districts.

Admittedly, when only one out of every four eligible voters find time to go to the polls that should not be anything to crow about.

On the other hand, compared to other similar elections, it was quite an electorate achievement.

Obviously there had to be a lot of things going in order to get that turn out at the polls.

And there were - - -.

YOU MAY RECALL that when the same tax hike request was before the voters in the Campbell Union High School District in February of this year, it was overwhelmingly rejected 8123 to 6338, a difference of 1785 votes.

In that election, 14,462 voters cast ballots out of 69,562 registered.

This time more than 20,000 voters went to the polls and the issue squeaked by 10,318 to 9,986, a victorious margin of a big 332 votes.

We suppose you can read into that anything you want.

But we would like to feel it was because the people were becoming more concerned in school affairs.

As they should.

We think also there is a hidden message that school officials should think about.

The high school district now has the mandate to continue with a high quality educational program. The voters went along with that.

BUT we think the message is loud and clear.

But don't get carried away, the taxpayers want their money's worth.

The tax tree is getting pretty barren.

WHAT MADE THE TRUSTEE election in the Campbell elementary district so unusual was the open involvement in the action of present and past school board members.

We have been exposed to school trustee elections in this community for the past 15 years and, as far as we have been able to determine, the trustee election last week was the first time in which trustees got themselves embroiled so openly in an election.

And on different sides.

We are inclined to think it was a good idea. It really took the guesswork out of it.

At least we all were able to know which way the ball was bouncing.

What the end result will be is yet to be determined.

Judy Ruscigno won a smashing victory by collecting

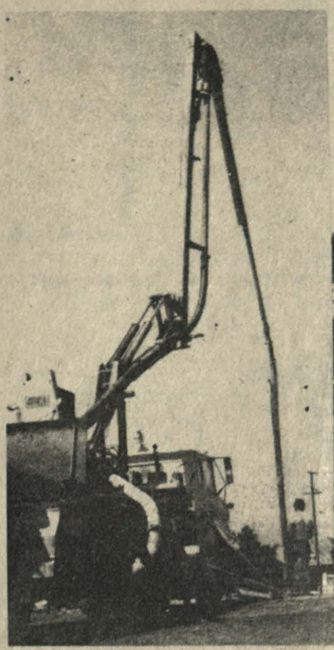
Pouring city hall

It was floor-laying time at the new city hall project this week as cement was poured for 7,125-square foot of full basement and first level of structure that is arising on North Central next to the present city hall, the converted Congregational Church building that has been used by the city since 1956.

The floor-work this week took 96½ cubic yards of cement.



Reflection of conditions

First quarter sales in town "level off"

Taxable retail sales in Campbell during the first quarter of 1970 topped the same period in 1969.

But just barely.

According to the State Board of Equalization report, the taxable retail sales in Campbell (the basis of the sales tax income) during the first three months of this year totalled $13,044,000.

For the first quarter in 1969, the figure was $13,038,000.

A minuscule increase of only $6,000!

But Los Gatos didn't do that well. Taxable retail sales in that community decreased $42,000 from $13,876,000 in 1969 to $13,834,000 in 1970.

All the other cities in the county, however, managed to show some sort of an increase, although George R. Reilly, chairman of the state Board of Equalization, emphasized in the report that in most instances, unlike previous years, any increase was due to higher prices.

Reilly also maintained that the first quarter report clearly showed that the "retail pot" has stopped boiling.

Statewide it was reported that automobile sales were particularly sluggish. Sales of new cars were down nine per cent from 1969.

Campbell without a car agency was not affected by that factor, but Los Gatos was, as automobile sales account for more than half of the entire sales picture in that community.

During the first quarter of 1969, the 16 automobile dealers in Los Gatos accounted for $7,747,000 of the total sales of $13,876,000.

During the first quarter this year, automobile sales dropped to $6,983,000, a decline of $764,000. Total sales were $13,834,000.

Campbell's two mainstays, building materials and home furnishings in the taxable retail sales picture also reflected the overall economic situation.

Whereas "home furnishings" showed a gain this year over last of $253,000 in sales ($2,412,000 to $2,159,000), the "building material" category dropped $558,000 for the same period. ($1,977,000 in 1970 compared to $2,535,000 in 1969.)

The report reveals that the majority of businesses in Campbell showed a drop in the first quarter this year from that of the previous year.

In addition to "home furnishings", the exceptions were "apparel stores" and a rather general heading of "other retail outlets".

The apparel trend was the most surprising.

During the first quarter of 1969, the report showed that there were 12 apparel outlets in Campbell and their retail taxable sales totalled

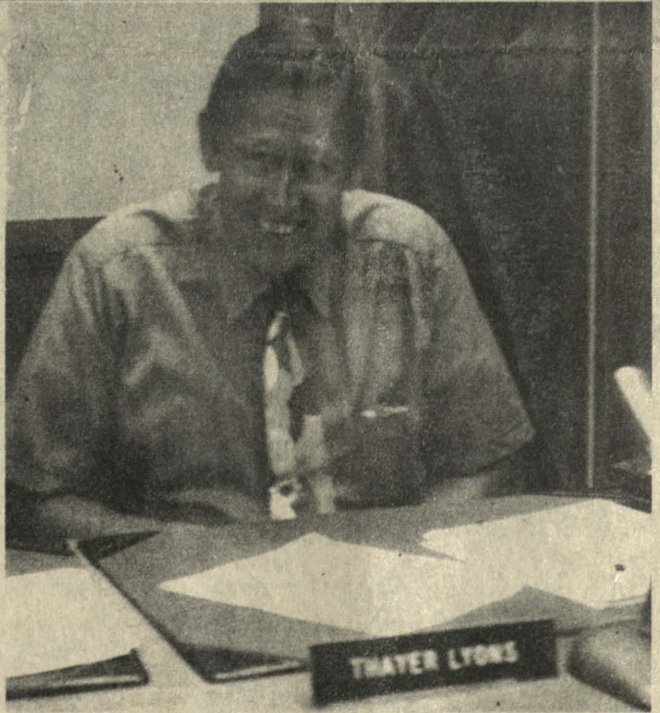
Industrial map

An attractive multi-colored map showing the industrial (manufacturing) zoned areas in Campbell with the city ordinances describing the zones printed on the reverse side is now available at the Chamber of Commerce office at 100 W. Rincon Ave.

The map was a project of the CofC's industrial committee, headed by Lowell Grattan.

In addition to information about the various CM, M-1-S, and M-2-S zones, pertinent information about the community is also listed.



LAST SESSION—Thayer Lyons, of 143 N. Carlyn Ave., pictured at his last Planning Commission meeting on July 20. On July 31, Lyons officially ends his service on the Planning Commission that began 12 years ago in 1958. Lyons holds the city record for length of service on the Planning Commission.

During his tenure on that body he has been in the "reviewing stand" for every major development that has occurred in this community, including five shopping centers, "The Towers" and "Pruneyard", a new fire station, the civic center complex, plus countless other commercial, industrial and residential projects.

Lyons, whose construction background proved of invaluable assistance to the Commission over the years, was honored at his last meeting by his fellow commissioners with a resolution emphasizing his service. The City Council has also officially recognized his service to the community.

At City Council level

City residence for Planners again becomes issue

By a 3-2 vote the City Council on Monday night specified that the on-again, off-again thorny question of whether planning commissioners should reside within the city limits would be on the agenda for discussion at the next City Council meeting, August 10.

Under the present Council policy planning commissioners need only to reside within the sphere of influence of the city. Members of the Parks and Recreation Commission, Youth Advisory Commission and, of course, the City Council must reside in the city.

Councilman Bill Podgorsek questioned the current policy. He said that a city with 24,000 should not need outside help and that efforts should be made to involve local citizens in city affairs.

Councilman Bill Smeed wholeheartedly agreed.

However Councilman Ed Rogers and Mayor Dean Chamberlin felt that there was merit in picking good commissioners from the spheres of influence and thought the matter should be deferred.

Chamberlin and Rogers then voted against placing the matter on the agenda for the next meeting. But Councilman Ralph Doetsch cast the deciding vote. The motion also included the point of whether a commissioner should be allowed to serve more than two terms.

COMMUNICATION

On Monday night the Council became involved in two unrelated communication issues. Councilman Smeed opposed the recommendation of staff (Police Chief John Morgan and City Manager Bob Stephens) that a consultant be employed at $200 to draft specifications for the public address system to be installed in the new city hall.

Smeed argued that consultant was unnecessary because there were many reputable electronic firms that could offer this service. However, his was the only dissenting vote on the staff recommendation.

In the other communication issue, the Council directed the city manager and City Attorney Joe Bonacina to draft a tentative agreement for Council approval on the modification of the CATV franchise for San Jose Cable based on "compromise" discussions that have been held.

San Jose Cable has a franchise to bring cable TV into the city at a 2% franchise charge (a minimum of $1200) against gross receipts with monthly service charges

PLANNING COMMISSIONERS—Norm Paul (left), of 44 El Caminito - owner of the Plaza Theaters in Campbell, on Monday night was appointed by the City Council to a full four-year term on the Planning Commission. Paul had served on the Planning Commission for the past year completing the unexpired term of Kel Young who had resigned.

Don Hebard (right), of 205 Calado, an insurance consultant, was appointed Monday night to a four-year term on the Planning Commission to replace Thayer Lyons, who did not seek reappointment. Hebard, now chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission, headed the Citizens Committee in the successful bond campaign in 1967 and was named citizen-of-the-year in 1968 by the Chamber of Commerce.

Editorial

Holding the R-1 Line

The average citizen in a community, unless his own property is directly affected in some manner, pays little attention to the various zoning issues that come before the Planning Commission and the City Council.

But often these issues and problems that seem so remote at the time of discussion and adoption will have a direct effect on the community as a whole.

So the importance of the zoning actions by the official city bodies should not be underestimated.

By the same token when a "general plan" is adopted by a city, specifying the present land use and presenting a guideline for the future, the same disinterest is shown by the citizens.

Yet this "general plan" or guideline definitely outlines in a general way how a community is going to develop, provided, of course, the guideline is followed to any degree.

It is obvious, however, that guidelines for planning must only be what the name implies.

It is not possible for any one person or group of persons to pinpoint the future of an ever-changing area with such a degree of accuracy that they can specify exactly what will take place a few years hence.

Still, it is just as obvious, that a general and specific plan is necessary. Definite controls must be established, otherwise a chaotic condition will result.

So it is in Campbell.

In the last few years, as The Press has emphasized time and time again, there has been a movement toward more and more development of multiple-dwelling projects.

In case after case, requests have been made to change areas that have been specified for single-family developments (R-1) in the general plan to a zoning that will allow a higher residential density (R-2-S, R-3-S, etc.)

As far as we can determine, there have been few, if any, requests to change the zoning on an area from multiples to single-family.

Such a situation not only concerns the Planning Commission and City Council but it also should involve all of us who reside in this community.

To over-simplify the problem, all of us must make up our minds as to what kind of a community we want.

The Planning Commission is to be commended for referring to the general plan as a guideline when these zone-change situations arise that affect the density and standing firm, in most cases, if the zone-change request fails to meet certain basic conditions.

Each request should stand on its own merits.

That is the way it should be.

If the general plan or the guideline does not meet the desires of the citizens, it should be modified. But these desires must be made known.

Naturally exceptions should and must be made, for no matter how good a crystal ball was used in the studies that preceded the adoption of any plan, obviously there will be situations arising that will cause deviations.

What we are saying, of course, is that the general plan is not a sacred thing that cannot be touched or modified. It should be used as a tool for the building of a better community.

There is no question in our mind that the so-called crystal ball we referred to can do a pretty fair job in outlining future commercial and industrial developments.

That seems to be fairly well stabilised.

So, it is the residential development which causes the most turmoil among the citizenry, for it is this area that is undergoing the changes in our community.

As we have said before, we do not believe the single-family dwelling is finished in this community, despite the fact that building of new homes in Campbell seems to have come to a screeching halt.

We firmly believe that a community should have a balance in its residential developments.

Obviously multiple-units from duplexes to high-rise are essential in definite specific areas.

But, in our opinion, it is just as essential to have one-family homes.

We reiterated our commendation of the Planning Commission for taking this "hard-nose" viewpoint on holding the "R-1 line", whenever it is practical to do so.

Planners to meet

Scheduled to appear before the Planning Commission next Monday, August 3, is Jack Ybarra, who has requested in a note to the Commission that he be allowed to speak on "land use and urban growth as related to Campbell"

On the agenda also is the continued matter of the zone change request of Marshall S. Davis and Vernon Renner for properties at 1785 and 1801 Hacienda Ave.

MORE ABOUT

Jim Gilliland, a member of the present board, publicly endorsed Judy while three of his fellow board members, Eleanor Graham-Armstrong, Richard MacQuiddy and Ralph Steinberg, urged voters to support Mrs. Franks.

It was an unusual situation.

We can't recall any other time in local history that such a public division had occurred among board members.

It also marked the first time since we have been at the helm of this newspaper that The Press endorsed a trustee candidate.

You may recall that we recommended the election of Judy Ruscigno as the candidate we thought offered both the leadership and the philosophy that was needed on the board.

A PERFUNCTORY CONclusion, we suppose, could now be drawn that the new board will split 3-2 on all issues that will come before it.

But wouldn't that be a ridiculous conclusion to draw?

That would mean that responsible men and women entrusted with the obligations of directing the affairs of a school district would be allowing their personal feelings and emotions to dictate their actions rather than to decide issues on their merits.

Surely the people who have given the trustees this responsibility have a right to demand something better than that.

As an old pro at observing local governing boards in action, it is our conclusion that the so-called strict "party vote" does not give the citizens a fair shake.

It will be interesting to watch the developments on the Campbell elementary school board.

SPEAKING OF ENDORSEments, we were thrown a real curve this past week when some woman, who identified herself as a member of the Murphy for Senator committee in the county, asked us to recall what The Campbell Press endorsements had been in national elections dating back to 1960.

Now we don't mind standing up and being counted for what this newspaper has stood for editorially in the past or what it stands for now or what it will stand for (hopefully) in the future.

After all, as we have said so often, your editor is really the only person in town who doesn't use the "secret ballot" in voting.

It is sort of a public record, so we couldn't change our past endorsements, even if we wanted to because of circumstances that may change the picture in the ensuing years.

Blessed with a pretty fair memory, we were able to recall off the top of our head the endorsements that were made in the past, although, as we told the lady, it was conceivable that any relationship between them and our present thinking would be purely coincidental.

We wondered aloud what such ancient history had to do with the political situation today and anyway just what impact did The Press have on the national picture.

Since that call we have verified our recollection by checking through the files. We found that our memory was correct.

The Press endorsed John F. Kennedy in 1960; made no endorsement when Lyndon Johnson and Barry Goldwater were running in 1964; and recommended Nixon in 1968. That mixes things a wee bit.

We found that over the years, The Press has endorsed Republican candidates more the Democrats. However, there had been considerable jumping around from party to party in many of the races through the years.

So, by no stretch of the imagination, has this paper followed the strict party line.

The only real consistency we found was in the case of Charlie Gubser, a Republican, who has represented this area in Congress for all these many years.

Charlie has received the endorsement of The Press each time he has run (every two years) and we will do it again come next November.

But we are not trying to prove anything with this dissertation.

It is just the fact's ma'am.

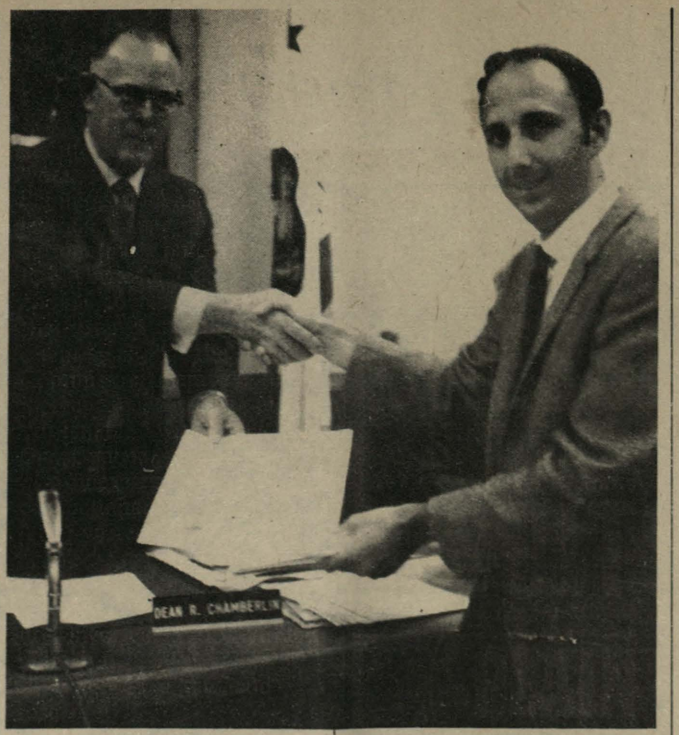
A LETTER TO THE Editor this week took us to task for having an editorial about "a breath of fresh air" when we complimented the Planning Commission for rejecting a zone change application that would change an R-1 (single-family residential) zoning to multiple-type and then suggesting in a subsequent issue that the Planning Commission members resign, if they found their position "untenable" with that of the City Council.

Something is wrong with our communication with the letter-writer.

We were talking about two distinct problems.

The question of R-1 was not involved in this "untenable" bit.

You win a few and you lose a few.



HONORED--Carl Kuhn (right) assistant to City Manager Bob Stephens has accepted a position as assistant city manager of the City of Pacifica as of August 10. At the Council meeting Mayor Dean Chamberlin (left) presents Kuhn with a certificate of appreciation on behalf of the City.

Prior to the mayor's presentation, Rusty Hammer, chairman of the Youth Commission, Don Hebard, chairman of Parks and Recreation Commission and Mrs. Jeanette Watson, chairman of the Citizens for Beautification, commended Kuhn for his untiring efforts on behalf of the community.

Retail sales

During the first quarter this year, there was one less outlet (11) and the retail taxable sales came to $267,000, a healthy gain of $138,000.

On the other hand, there was one more eating and drinking place reporting the first quarter (55 to 54) this year than last and there was a drop in business, $1,007,000 in 1970 to $1,041,000 in 1969.

And even the 21 food stores in town (the same number in each year) reported a decrease in taxable business this year over last, $1,148,000 in 1969 to $1,007,000.

The 10 drug stores also reported less business... $279,000 in 1969 to $270,000 in 1970.

And there were two more service stations in town this year than last...45 to 47...and business declined.

The 45 stations reported $258,000 in taxable sales for the first quarter in 1969 and the 47 outfits reported $232,000 this year.

In the total taxable retail sales picture in the county, Campbell with $13,044,000 and Los Gatos with $13,834,000 follow the "big five", San Jose ($188,456,000); Santa Clara ($56,982,000); Palo Alto ($54,127,000); Mountain View ($42,354,000); Sunnyvale ($38,121,000).

However, the two west valley cities top Los Altos ($8,650,000); Cupertino ($8,434,000); Gilroy ($6,162,000).

MARKET COMMENT

The psychology of the investing public has been waning over the last few weeks. The current downslide has been severe and harsh. The Dow Jones, which is the most widely watched market indicator, had dropped more than thirty percent since its last top in December 1968.

My personal observation is that the economy and business situation are expected to be extremely conservative and tight for the rest of the year. I recommend that you continue to purchase securities on the New York Stock Exchange.

It is important that each stock you purchase should have a dividend and the stock should not be purchased at price earnings over 12. I am presently working the following public utilities: Philadelphia Electric, Pacific Gas & Electric, P.G.&E. Preferred D.

For growth potential, I especially recommend the following: Texaco, Lehigh Portland Cement, Giant Portland Cement.

The present instability of the market indicates that stocks of highly speculative nature should be avoided, and I firmly believe that by so doing you would be upgrading your account.

I should be happy to furnish investment information supporting my recommendations.

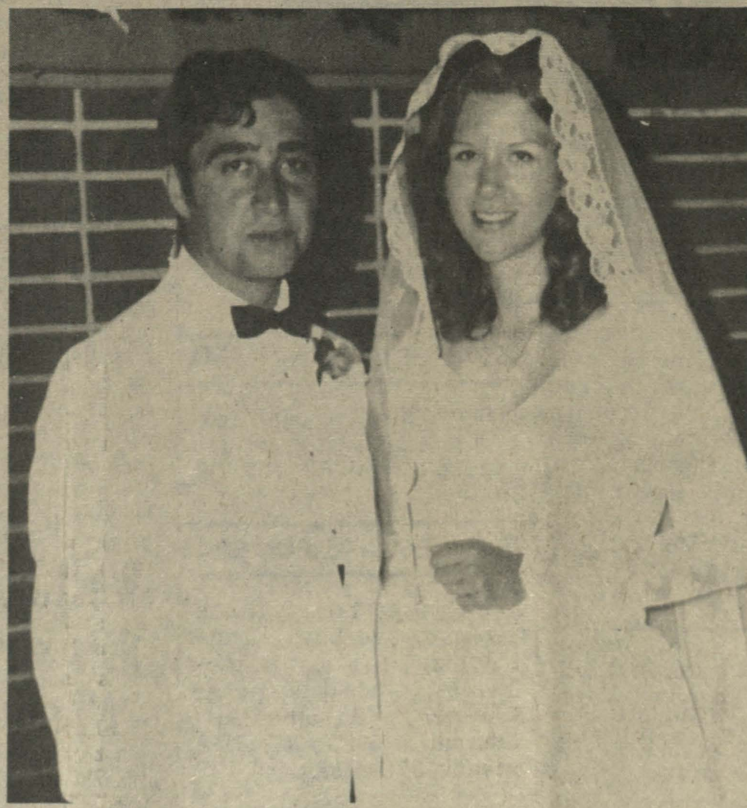
Now at home in Berkeley



MR. AND MRS. RASTEGAR

For her wedding day Dorothea wore a floor length white satin gown fashioned with a v-neckline and long lace sleeves. Her long veil was bordered with lace, with lace appliques and she carried a bouquet of white roses with long white ribbon streamers.

Dorothea is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Standish of Virginia Ave. She attended Campbell Elementary and was graduated from Campbell High School in 1966. She received her degree from the University of California, Berkeley, this June where she majored in dramatic art. Miss Standish was given in marriage by her father.

Serving as maid of honor was her sister-in-law, wearing a floor length lavender gown and carrying a yellow rose bouquet. A niece, Christiane Hayashi served in the role of flower girl and carried out the bridal party color of lavender and yellow in a long yellow gown and carried a basket of yellow and white roses.

The rings were entrusted to Gregory Erfani.

The bridegroom, who is known to his many friends as Ali, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abdolkhalegh Rastegar of Shiraz, Iran. He has been attending school in Oakland and is employed as a mechanic.

An organ prelude to the wedding ceremony was composed of the bride's favorite melodies and just as the bride and groom met at the altar, the church bell was rung by Will Clever, a friend of the family.

For the occasion Mrs. Standish chose a deep turquoise dress styled with a Mandarin collar and accented with shocking pink accessories.

Serving in the role of best man was Hassan Erfani, while the guests were ushered to their seats by Gareth Penn and Mohammad Dargahi.

A reception at the church followed the wedding ceremony and the bride and groom shared their wedding cake with their many friends and relatives before leaving on their honeymoon in Monterey.

Mr. and Mrs. Rastegar and now making their home in Berkeley.

Four receive scholarship from church

Scholarship recipients of the S. G. and Ada E. Nelson Memorial Fund scholarship from the Congregational Church of Campbell have been announced by the church scholarship and memorial committees.

Receiving scholarships this year are Miss Christine Shank who graduated from the Cupertino High School and will attend the University of the Pacific and Miss Ann Helderman, Campbell High School who will be attending West Valley Junior College, each $250.

Receiving $125 scholarships are Miss Cynthia Stephenson, Campbell High School graduate who will be attending Cal Polytech, San Luis Obispo, and Ken Engdahl, attending West Valley College.

Letters to the Editor

CRITICISM

Dear Mr. Editor:

I have one question—How can you possibly talk about a "breath of fresh air" in one column and then a couple of editorials later, ask for the resignation of the Planning Commission?

It seems to me that if you want to run true to form then you had better stick by the people who are trying to keep this area (Campbell) R-1(residential) Does the government ask us to put smog control devices on our cars so they can crowd our cities more?

Selfishness and greed seem to prevail over common sense and decency again.

Mrs. Jean M. Angulo

Kirkwood Car Wash opens for business

After a two-week delay of their scheduled opening, the ultra-modern Kirkwood Car Wash began rolling cars through their line this week. Located in the new Kirkwood Auto Center on San Tomas Aquino Rd., the Auto Center is a part of the large and fast growing Kirkwood Plaza center on West Campbell Ave.

Operator of the new car wash system is Joseph C. Parsons, general sales manager of the Retail Sales Division of the Joseph L. Castor company of San Francisco. Manager is Larry Beekman, who was also a member of the staff of the Castor company.

The new car wash introduces several new features. First, a so-called "gas fill-up" is not required to get a free car wash. Instead, the Kirkwood Car Wash will feature a Free car wash (and complete dry) with any amount of gasoline purchased.

Another new feature is the exclusive Prestone Hot Jet Spray Wax, available on any car wash job for a slight additional fee. Applied as it is, the wax is embedded deeply into the pores of the car's paint to prevent oxidation and to seal the finish for a long-lasting lustre.

When the remaining spaces in the Auto Center are occupied during the next month, it will provide for Campbell the first complete car care center inthe city's history.

FIRST CAR IN--Larry Beekman, manager of the Kirkwood Car Wash on San Tomas Aquino Rd., stands by as one of the first cars is run through. Completely automatic, the system gives hot washing, clear rinse and complete drying to every car as it passes through the line.

MORE ABOUT

of $4.95 per customer.

However, since the franchise was granted, the city fee has been raised to 5% of the gross with a minimum of $5000.

In the meantime San Jose Cable now is offering 24 channels instead of the original 12 that had been planned and has raised its rates in other localities to $5.95 per month.

The firm wanted to raise Campbell rates also but City officials felt that if the monthly rate was changed, San Jose Cable should come under the new franchise fee.

In the "compromise" that was worked out between staff and officials of the cable TV firm, San Jose Cable agreed to pay up to $7500 per year, based on gross receipts and the City would allow the rate increase, starting when the first connection in town was made.

Councilman Smeed was adamant that a specific date should be listed for the new franchise fee and his fellow councilmen agreed.

It was indicated that there would probably be no hookups in Campbell before the end of the year.

HOUSE TO OFFICE

By a unanimous vote, the Council granted Mr. and Mrs. Joe Russo a use permit to continue the use of a residence at 175 E. Campbell Ave., for the next two years as an office. The house had been used by West Valley College as an office for the past two years and the Russos wanted to continue with the same use.

The Planning Commission had rejected the request because it could not meet Fire Zone I requirements. The Commission had no authority to overlook that factor.

The Council approved the office use, specifying that landscaping should be improved and the city would not be liable under the fire code requirements.

Councilman Smeed emphasized that it was unfair to have allowed the college to use it and not the owner. Mayor Chamberlin added that the usage of the house as a residence was not in the best interest of the downtown area.

OTHER ACTIONS

In other actions on Monday, the Council authorized the purchase of police patrol cars through the state and approved City Manager Stephens' recommendation that Police Chief John Morgan be named temporary city manager when the city manager was absent from duties.

It was explained that Fire Chief George Maxwell had acted in that capacity previously but the fire chief was now located in Fire Station No. 2 on Sunnyoaks, some distance from the city hall.

By a 4-1 vote (Rogers dissenting) the Council adopted the zone change ordinance affecting the Winchester Drive-In Theater (from R-3-S to M-1-S).

Adopted also was the civic center zoning district and a zone change for property at 856 E. Campbell Ave.

The Council also approved the formation of Local Improvement District No. 21 for the improvement of El Caminito, Catalpa Lane and California Ave. The city will pay two-thirds of the cost of the improvements from bond funds voted in 1967 and the property owners will pay one-third.

The Council also approved the installation of stop signs on the side streets on E. Rincon Ave. from Winchester Blvd.

At the request of Rusty Hammer, chairman of the Youth Commission, aided by Pete Smith, former city administration intern from San Jose State at the city hall, the Council approved in principle of allowing the electorate to vote on the lowering of the voting age but did not approve the specific bill now before the legislature as sought by Hammer.
